The Coaching Corner with Michael Riegel: Spring is a Time of Renewal

The Coaching Corner with Micheal Riegel

Spring is a Time of Renewal

For many of you across the US, the idea that spring is on the doorstep may seem absurd. In North Carolina, the last week ushered in reminders of what we all eagerly anticipate. Sunnier mornings, temperatures reaching into the 70s, and daylight extending beyond 6pm. This is not a pitch to move to North Carolina though we have enjoyed the weather, lifestyle, and abundance of local breweries.

Think about spring, two things come to mind. Time for the heavy cleaning around our house and preparing for planting. We look forward to getting vegetables planted, bringing our citrus plants back outside, and sprucing up with dazzling flowers. We can also use this time to think about our relationships. Are there relationships that need some attention? Do you want to plant the seeds of a new relationship? How can you let others know that you are approachable so they can reciprocate?

Industry Update

WIC Week Shines Spotlight On Generations of Women in Construction

It is common for sons to follow in their fathers' footsteps, especially in family-owned trade or contracting businesses. What is not as well known is that many women enter construction the same way. Today, however, women are increasingly joining the industry through ties from their mothers, and sometimes, even their grandmothers.
