The House That She Built: Donation Program and Book Request

NAWIC is excited to announce its new book donation program in collaboration with MiTek and The House That She Built! Chapters are now able to order copies of The House That She Built to give away at educational programs for students free of charge. The House that She Built was inspired by the team of real women who came together from around the country to build a one-of-a-kind home. It aims to educate young readers about all the people and skills that go into building a home.

Chapters must meet certain criteria and pay for shipping. Please contact media@nawic.org with questions.

The influence of adult role models on female construction management professionals in their adolescent years

Dear NAWIC Members:

I am NAWIC at-large member and currently undertaking a doctorate in Curriculum and Instruction at Kansas State University. In order to complete my dissertation I am required to research a topic area. The topic I have chosen to look at is the influence of adult role models on female construction management professionals in their adolescent years. The purpose of this study is to identify the role model relationships female construction management professionals developed in their adolescent years.

Juneteenth: Celebrate Freedom

Juneteenth (short for “June Nineteenth”) became a federal holiday in the United States on June 17, 2021, under Joe Biden presidential administration. Juneteenth commemorates the emancipation or freedom of enslaved African Americans in the United States, as declared on that day in 1865 when the federal troops arrived in Galveston, Texas to take control of the state and ensure that all enslaved people be freed. The troops arrived a full two and a half years after the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation Abraham Lincoln in 1863. Juneteenth honors the end to slavery in the United States and is considered the longest-running African American holiday.

The Coaching Corner with Michael Riegel: The Only Constant is Change

The Coaching Corner
with Michael Riegel

The Only
Constant is Change

I don't always feel like I fit the generational descriptions and have always pushed back on being part of Gen X. I never felt the angst portrayed in Reality Bites nor did I feel the conflict in Office Space (both movies are worth revisiting). However, needs, wants, desires, perspectives, and approaches continue to change and change again as new generations enter the workforce. Consider that by 2030 all of the Baby Boomers will be past the age of 65, eligible for Social Security and Medicare, and will have more ability to exit the workforce.

How do we change our approaches to meet the needs of the following generations? I can assure you that Gen X, Millennials, and Gen Z are as different from each other as they are from the Boomers and Veteran generations. For many in our industry, the need to show up on a job site, perform physical tasks, and shower at the end of the day did not change during the pandemic and likely will remain. The acceptance and implementation of different styles and approaches in interpersonal relationships certainly has changed.

NAWIC Discount - Dovetail Workwear

The advertisement features a laptop screen displaying a group of seven women in various workwear, including hard hats and safety glasses. An orange banner at the bottom of the screen reads "25% OFF WORKWEAR FOR WOMEN". Above the laptop, the Dovetail Workwear logo is on the left, and the NAWIC logo (The National Association of Women in Construction) is on the right, with the tagline "Leading Builders. Building Leaders." Below the laptop, a black button contains the text "Use code: NAWIC". To the right of the laptop, the text "25% OFF WORKWEAR FOR WOMEN" is displayed in large red letters, followed by "You don't want to miss out on this offer!" in smaller black text. Three red curved lines are positioned in the upper right corner of the advertisement area.

When you use code NAWIC at checkout, you will get 25% off your purchase.
